Michelle has over 25 years of art and insurance industry experience. As Fine Art & Valuable Collections Risk Consulting Manager at Chubb, she leads the team of risk consulting specialists, delivering a suite of consultative collection management services across the country. She advises top private collectors on the protection of their fine art, jewelry, wine, and other valuables. With in-depth expertise in preservation, display, security/fire protection, transit, and storage of collections, she develops tailored risk management solutions to address the evolving needs of collectors. She also stays up to date on market trends and provides valuation guidance.

In addition to managing risk, Michelle teaches continuing education courses and presents to agents/brokers, collectors, and wealth advisors on a variety of collection risk management topics. She has been a guest speaker at the international conference for ICEFAT (International Convention of Exhibition and Fine Art Transporters), the Appraisers Association of America's Art Law Day, the American Society of Appraisers International Conference, the Certified Advisor of Personal Insurance Program at the Wharton School of Business, and the Private Risk Management Association Summit. Prior to her current role, Michelle served as Fine Art Director at ACE and Fireman's Fund, and Senior Fine Art Specialist at Chubb. Her fine art career began at a NYC art gallery where she worked as an art researcher.

Michelle graduated Summa Cum Laude with a bachelor's degree in art history and French from Bowdoin College. She spent a year abroad with Hamilton College in Paris, studying at the Ecole du Louvre and the Sorbonne/Paris III. She further enhanced her education at New York University where she took courses in the Appraisal Studies Program of Fine & Decorative Arts. Michelle earned her Applied Jewelry Professional diploma with the Gemological Institute of America. She is a licensed property & casualty insurance broker and a certified infrared thermographer. She is a member of ArtTable, Professional Advisors to the International Art Market, the Arts & Records Committee of the Inland Marine Underwriters Association and serves on the Advisory Council of the Appraisers Association of America.
